RE: Comments on Western's Proposed Cost Allocation Methodology & Consolidation

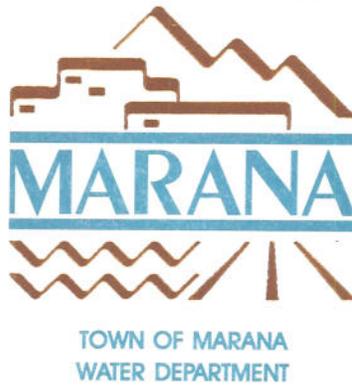

Dear Ms. Emler:

Wickenburg is a customer of the Parker-Davis allocation and it receives electricity over the Parker-Davis system interconnected to other systems. We have reviewed Western's proposed cost allocation methodology. Particularly we have reviewed the benefits of the more equitable proposed methodology that no longer is based on SCADA points, but instead uses other factors to create a more equitable allocation of costs.

An equitable allocation of costs is very important for the Wickenburg business model and we are supportive of your proposal.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Wojcik
Interim Town Manager

Re: Comments on Western's Proposed Cost Allocation Methodology and Consolidation

Dear Ms. Emler:

The Town of Marana Utilities Department is a customer of the Parker-Davis allocation and we receive electricity over the Parker-Davis system interconnected to other systems. We have reviewed Western's proposed cost allocation methodology. Particularly, we have reviewed the benefits of the more equitable WAPA proposed methodology that no longer is based on SCADA points but instead uses other factors to create a more equitable allocation of costs.

An equitable allocation of cost is very important for our business model and we are supportive of your proposal.

Sincerely,

Ann Meaders
Interim Utilities Director

RE: Comments on Western's Proposed Cost Allocation Methodology and Consolidation

Dear Ms. Emler:

The Town of Gilbert Utility Department is a customer of the Parker-Davis allocation and also receives electricity over the Parker-Davis system interconnected to other systems. We have reviewed Western's proposed cost allocation methodology presented by Mr. Darren Buck in a customer meeting held on September 19, 2011. In particular, we have reviewed the benefits of the proposed methodology that no longer is based on SCADA points but instead uses a simpler, fact-based, and task oriented process to more equitably allocate costs. An equitable allocation of cost is very important to Gilbert and we support your proposal.

Sincerely,

Lonnie K. Frost
 Chairman, Utilities Board
