Each month since December 1979, the Western Area Power Administration Office of Public Affairs has published Closed Circuit. To keep in step with technology, the magazine transitioned to an all-digital format at the launch of pandemic, saving printing costs. Now, the award-winning publication will be distributed bimonthly, as new communication platforms have taken the stage.

Sharing the story of WAPA is one of the most important things we do to keep our audiences informed and engaged, spotlight our employees and programs and celebrate our achievements and milestones. Today, audiences are accustomed to reaching for information that is most relevant and pertinent to them. As such, a variety of publications fill that need by providing extended information on specific interests, such as the annual report, State of the Assets and the strategic plan.

To best meet the needs of our audiences, we are listening and appreciate hearing from you. Let us know how we are doing. Thank you for reading, contributing and helping us to share our story through Closed Circuit.

Sincerely,

Teresa Waugh | Chief Public Affairs Officer
Western Area Power Administration | Headquarters
